

Note-taking

In order to help ELLA staff elaborate a report of the visit, the study tour participants will be asked to take notes during the different meetings, visits and reflection sessions. As shown in the following chart, each participant will be in charge of the note-taking for one or two sessions.

For each visit/meeting session, the participant in charge of the note-taking should concentrate on reporting on the subject, on what is the experience about, on the challenges and the achievements of the experience and on the lessons learned.

For each reflection session, the participant in charge should base its note-taking on the following questions:

General questions:

- In terms of achievements, what aspects did the group consider of greatest interest?
- In general, what aspects did the group consider essential to replicate the experience in their country?
- If the experience could be replicated, what would the participants do differently?

Specific question:

- How feasible would it be to replicate the experience in each country? Why?
(Two line responses per country)
